To begin, the monkey weaponry and monkey warriors are the primary factors responsible for defending the monkey kingdom, and in order to improve the overall performance of the combat, you need the greatest possible examples of each kind. Second, you have to be careful about where you position the monkey fighters in the arena. The playing field is constrained by the map of the game, while the trajectory of the balloons is predetermined. You will have to position your warriors in order to save space and ensure that the target's movement area is covered. In my view, you should place the monkeys in such a way that they may attack on many turns at the same time.
